

December

Grade 5 Newsletter – December in Review

Introduction... I wanted to take a moment to wish you and your families a happy and safe holidays. I hope that you are able to spend time with your loved ones and enjoy the feelings of happiness and joy that such family holidays bring.

In English Language, we are tackling some short fiction and non-fiction texts, looking at both improving reading comprehension skills and pronunciation issues that students face when encountering unfamiliar topics. We are also reviewing informal letter writing skills.

In Mathematics, we have started looking at the parts of a whole: fractions, improper fractions, mixed numbers, and decimals. We are practicing all operations using these numbers.

In Social Studies, we are learning about how Europeans are adapting and surviving in New France and what their relationships with the harsh environment and mostly friendly indigenous peoples consisted of.

In Science, we have covered the topics of extreme weather and students were able to research and present to the class. We also became meteorologists for a day and presented different weather reports from around the world.

Happy December!

Ms. Kepa

Pictures, pictures, pictures!

