Grade 3 Newsletter – January 2022 in Review

Introduction... Well, January didn't begin on a high note as I was hit by a car while walking to the bus stop after online lessons on 5 January. Let me just say that getting hit by a car really hurts! That led to me being out of school for one week; thank you Mr. Pieter for subbing for me! When I came back, we made some adjustments and class was held in the sports hall as I continued to recover. Then we went back online for a week before break. I am fully recovered, thankfully, and ready to get back to teaching in our regular setting following Winter Break!

In English Language, we finished reading "Anne of Green Gables" just before Winter Break.

In Mathematics, we continued learning about geometry, solids (3-D shapes), and some vocabulary related to solids (edges, base, face, vertices, etc.)

In Social Studies, we continued to study geography and maps.

In Science, we continued our unit on forces and motion.

In Art, we combined math and art to create pictures using pattern blocks. Mr. Pieter did an art lesson with the students on Picasso, and the students created portraits in Picasso's cubism style.

Happy January! Here's hoping February is less dramatic and traumatic!

Ms. Sue
